VI. Business of GuestsA. Eric Dehays

Eric Dehays greeted Council and gave praise for how good things are in our community. He gave kudos to the Public Services Department for their snow and leaf removal, and the Golf course staff for keeping in his opinion the best maintained public course in central Ohio. He said the family events the City puts on are fantastic, the Police force is top notch, and Groveport is just overall a great community to live in. He expressed how proud he is to live here, and said since retiring he's been walking fifty to sixty miles a month around Groveport road and Bixby road from alum creek to Hamilton road to get exercise and pick up litter. He stated he picks up a hundred pounds of litter every month. He said he is working with Griffin Wheel and showed a tag from one of their finished products as an example of regular litter he picks up. They are now trying to do their part. He suggested the City post no littering signs with fines listed on them to encourage drivers from littering. Mr. Cleary inquired which areas are the worst, leading Council, staff, and Mr. Dehays to further discuss the litter issue, ways the City can get involved, and signage.

B. SWACO

SWACO's Karen Seidel and Andrew Booker presented a PowerPoint presentation entitled Groveport Recycling Opportunities & Collection Services. Mrs. Seidel outlined topics in the presentation, including SWACO's Consortium Program, Groveport's next round of contracts with SWACO, recycling carts and available grants for them, and volume-based collection. Council, staff and the SWACO Team discussed topics in the presentation at length. Mr. Rupp inquired how SWACO reaches out to local businesses to help them recycle. Mrs. Seidel stated that Business Administrator Sheila Davis does a phenomenal job at meeting with and providing resources to businesses and that there is a recycling container program available to provide them with recycling containers for free. She proceeded with the presentation and spoke about the Consortium Program, noting that twenty five of the forty one communities are now participating in the program. She moved on to outline Groveport's contracts and pricing guidelines for new contracts going up for bid soon, including the Recycling Process agreement, which establishes pricing on recycling, and Collection Services, which establishes pricing for curbside trash collection and yard waste. Historically, yard waste collection has been free, and it is anticipated to stay that way with this next bid. She recapped on Groveport's current collection prices and said they would stay the same in 2025. She said SWACO will have draft bids out to communities toward the end of this month, and that bid packages will be coming out early next year, in hopes of receiving Groveport's resolution to award by late June. The presentation moved on to cover potentially upgrading Groveport's 18 gallon recycle bins to a 65 gallon wheeled recycling cart, to reduce the amount of litter being blown from the bins. Mr. Booker outlined certain benefits and pricing on the carts vs the bins as well. The City of Groveport would pay $5 pre household to utilize the carts, and have three years to pay SWACO back. Council, staff, and the SWACO team further discussed the topic of recycle carts, automated trash collection and volume-based collection, composting services, and recycling best practices.

IX. Other Business

Mrs. Hilbert mentioned seeing another municipality utilizing their water tower as a cell phone tower and suggested Groveport could do the same. Mr. Dildine said that when we redid the water tower, we were told the extra weight of the cell phone tower equipment would damage the water tower. Mrs. Hilbert added that having cell phone towers would be a good way to bring us some extra money. Resident and former council member John Houglund approached the podium and mentioned that there is a cell tower at the Lutheran Church. Mrs. Hilbert expressed that the City could do the same thing as the church and gain some easy revenue. Mr. Dildine stated the first three companies that came to us with the intention of putting in a cell tower here folded, so that's why we don't have any. Mr. Cleary mentioned there are cell tower on the lights on the high school football field and Mr. Dildine mentioned a tower on Ebright road. Mr. Dildine said he was advised at the time they were looking into more towers that too many would interfere with service, so the City never put more in.
